Leaving home and family is sometimes the only option for the opportunity to a new life

" At the age of 12, my brother and I escaped Myanmar. Leaving was very difficult. When we arrived at the United States I felt sad and lonely because no one was like me. Learning a new language was the most challenging, I had a wonderful social worker to help me through out my days. At 17, I graduated, went to complete my AA in Business Administration, now, I am at FIU. I am very grateful"
